

People & platforms drive sales & marketing.

How does your team stack up?

Good marketing technologists work hard to reimagine what marketing can do in a digital world. They help traditional marketers craft better programs, campaigns and customer experiences. They know how to effectively leverage software and data to drive successful leads and sales in ways never imagined before.

Freeman+Leonard is at the leading edge of digital transformation with CRM talent that is trained, experienced and capable of leading your MarTech strategy. Creating, managing and using today's digital tools makes it possible to automate tasks and make data-driven decisions that keep you ahead of your competitors.

Whether you want advice and strategic leadership, or have a plan and need the people to carry it out, we are ready with talent solutions to meet your specific needs. On-site or remote, our people are sourced from across the country to ensure top performers are available when you need them, and not when you don't.
